a screen on said display unit is able to display a second selection screen which is appropriate for an operation by said main input unit when both of said housings are in an opened state (fig.1-6, col.3, lines 3-19, col.6, lines 6-64).

Regarding claim 2, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal according to claim 1, wherein said first selection screen arranges items one-dimensionally, and said second selection screen arranges items multi-dimensionally (fig.1-6, col.4, lines 18-37, col.7, lines 21-37).

Regarding claim 3, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal according to claim 1, wherein items of said first selection screen are characters, and items of said second selection screen are icons (fig.1-6, col.4, lines 18-37, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9).

Regarding claim 6, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal according to claim 1, wherein said main input unit includes a key capable of being two-dimensionally operated, and said auxiliary input unit includes a lever capable of being one-dimensionally operated (col.4, lines 18-37).

Regarding claim 8, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal according to claim 1, wherein the portable terminal is a portable telephone (col.2, line 53 to col.3, line 2).

Regarding claim 9, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal comprising:

a first housing having at least a display unit (fig.1, element 108, col.3, lines 53-67);

a second housing having at least a main input unit, and connected openably and closably to said first housing (fig.1-6, element 110, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9); and an auxiliary input unit arranged on a surface other than mutually facing surfaces of both of said housings in a closed state (fig.1-6, col.2, lines 35-52, device may be used independently of the information input/output device);

wherein said display unit is visible to user in a closed state and an opened state (fig.1-6, co.6, lines 6-64), a screen on said display unit is able to display a first selection screen arranging items one-dimensionally when both of said housings are in a closed state (fig.1-6, col.3, lines 3-19, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9, col.6, lines 6-64), and a screen on said display unit is able to display a second selection screen arranging items multi-dimensionally when both of said housings are in an opened state (fig.1-6, col.3, lines 3-19, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9, col.6, lines 6-64).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over SanGiovanni (U.S.Pat-6850784) in view of Kfoury (U.S.Pat-6549789).

Regarding claim 4, SanGiovanni teaches a portable terminal according to claim 1, further comprising:

SanGiovanni fails to specifically disclose a state detecting device which detects opening and closing of both of said housings; and a control device which switches a display screen on said display unit; wherein said control device switches between said first selection screen and said second selection screen in accordance with a state detected by said state detecting device. However, Kfoury teaches a state detecting device which detects opening and closing of both of said housings (fig.1, col.4, lines 14-33); and a control device which switches a display screen on said display unit; wherein said control device switches between said first selection screen and said second selection screen in accordance with a state detected by said state detecting device (col.6, lines 46-65). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a state detecting device which detects opening and closing of both of said housings; and a control device which switches a display screen on said display unit; wherein said control device switches between said first selection screen and said second selection screen in accordance with a state detected by said state detecting device as taught by Kfoury with SanGiovanni teaching in order to make the devices more desirable to the consumer.

Regarding claim 5, Kfoury and SanGiovanni further teaches a portable terminal according to claim 4, wherein items on said first selection screen are characters while items on said second selection screen are icons (see SanGiovanni, fig.1-6, col.4, lines 18-37, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9) , and when a selection screen has been switched in accordance with an opening action or a closing action from a state in which an item on said first or second selection screen has been selected, said item remains selected in a form of a character or an icon corresponding to said first or second screen (see SanGiovanni, fig.1-6, col.4, lines 18-37, col.4, line 58 to col.5, line 9, see Kfoury, col.7, lines 49-57).

Citation of Pertinent Prior Art

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Jannick et al. (U.S.Pat-6766182) discloses Rotational mechanism for a wireless communication device.

Gray (U.S.Pat-5485517) discloses Portable wireless telephone having swivel chassis.
